

Combating online child sexual exploitation anywhere, anytime

The Virtual Global Taskforce (VGT) is an international alliance of dedicated law enforcement agencies and industry partners working together to keep children safe online.

Online child abuse — a brutal crime

Child sexual abuse attacks the most vulnerable members of our society and deprives innocent children of their most formative years. Every image posted online is a picture of a crime scene. No form of this crime will be tolerated anywhere in the world.

Making the internet safer for children

The VGT aims to make the internet a safer place by identifying, locating and helping children at risk and taking action against individuals who sexually abuse children.

The VGT logo reaffirms the VGT's purpose that the child is the focus of the VGT and the eye is always roaming the internet across international borders watching over our children to keep them safe online.

The Report Abuse button on the VGT website is an effective mechanism for reporting suspected sexual predator behaviour. For more information on how to report suspicious online behaviour, visit www.virtualglobaltaskforce.com

VGT making a difference

Since it was established in 2003, the VGT has and will continue to rescue children globally from sexual abuse, hold to account child sex predators and conduct numerous targeted law enforcement operations into online child abuse and related contact offending.

The successes of the VGT rely on the strong international partnerships between the following VGT partner agencies:

- Australian Federal Police
- National Child Exploitation Coordination Centre, as part of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police
- Italian Postal and Communication Police Service
- Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre, United Kingdom
- U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement
- INTERPOL
- Ministry of Interior for the United Arab Emirates
- New Zealand Police
- Europol
